Daly City to Patrol S. Bruno Mountain

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Agreement has been reached between the Guadalupe Valley Municipal Improvement District and Daly City on providing police and fire protection for all of San Bruno Mountain, it was announced Monday.

City Manager David Rowe said representatives of the city had met with E. Sherman Eubanks, chairman of the Board of the District, and Don Hohl, general manager of the district, and agreement had been reached on providing the public safety services to the multi-million dollar Crocker Industrial Park and the area owned by Foremost-McKesson and Visitacion Associates on the mountain.

Brisbane has, for the past several years, provided both fire and police protection to the district.

It had been rumored in recent weeks that Crocker Land Company had made overtures to Daly City to take over the services after Brisbane upped the cost of its contract services to some $150,000.

Last year, Brisbane received $100,000 for similar services — about one-eighth of its total annual city budget.

How this new arrangement will affect Brisbane's over-all operations is not known at this time.

The new contract with Daly City becomes effective at the start of 1975, leaving a "phase out" of Brisbane services, it was understood.

Daly City will receive $109,000 for its police and fire services for the first year and $115,000 in calendar year 1976.

Rowe said he believed the terms of the agreement, which are now in the hands of Crocker's attorneys, to be "fair and equitable."

With Daly City handling the services Brisbane would lose a substantial source of revenue.

Some see the move as Daly City's first step toward annexation of the entire mountain — now in the sphere of influence of Brisbane since the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) made its determination on the matter last year.

The closest fire station to the Crocker Industrial Park, off Old Country Road, is located at Schwerin and Geneva avenues in the Bayshore District of Daly City.

Running time to any fire in the industrial area would take perhaps 30 seconds to a minute longer than it now takes Brisbane's fire apparatus to get to the scene, according to Rowe.

However, there has not been a major fire in the ultra-modern park in recent years and most of the buildings are equipped with built-in sprinkler systems and fire alarms, it was explained.

Asked if the addition of the areas would result in hiring new firemen, Rowe said, "Perhaps three new men will be hired for the fire department at the end of this year (1974)." No additional policemen, however, will be hired, he said.

Presently, whenever there is a grass fire on the mountain, Daly City (or other municipalities adjoining the fire scene) respond, followed by the Forest Service which must respond from Belmont.

"Our firemen usually have the blaze extinguished by the time they (Fire Service) get there," Rowe told the City Council Monday.

Councilman Bill Schumacher asked Rowe if Daly City taxpayers would get a tax rate reduction as a result of having the new revenues coming into the city?

Schumacher also asked if Daly City had entered into "price-cutting" to secure the contract with Crocker.

To both questions Rowe answered "no."

Rowe said at present there were instances where Daly City police are called out to the mountain area in various crimes.

He added that Crocker representatives had sought out the city for a price on supplying police and fire services.

Daly City's fire rates are now "four," while Brisbane's are set at "five," Rowe said.

Inclusion of Crocker Mountain and the industrial park will not affect Daly City's fire rates, Rowe said.

"Over-all, each balances out, therefore there will be no change in our (Daly City) fire rates," the city manager said.

An outspoken critic of the plan attending the study session was Serramonte Homeowners' Improvement Association president Bob Loeloff.

He said he was worried about "spreading firemen too thin" and noted he had observed a city "snorkel-type" fire truck responding to a fire with only two men aboard.

Loeloff interpreted this as being an indication trucks were responding to emergencies with less than required manpower.

Mayor McRobert Stewart said if the city was in jeopardy as a result of manpower or equipment shortages "I would be the first to vote against it."

South San Francisco Votes to Close City Jail; Critical Corrections Board Report

By JACK BIK

It would cost $80,000 to move thick cement walls in order to bring the South San Francisco city jail up to state standards.

This was the estimate of police officials who glumly studied the report from the State Board of Corrections, which last week sent to the city results of an investigation undertaken April 24.

It was this report which last week prompted the City Council to order the jail closed "as soon as possible," with its operation transferred to the five-year-old Daly City Jail.

Although no agreement has been reached with Daly City, South San Francisco already has curtailed use of the jail to the point where prisoners are being detained there for no longer than an hour or two.

PRISONERS never were kept in the cells for any great length of time — only until police were able to take them to court. However, over weekends, the jail became crowded at times, officials admit.

While talks are in progress with Daly City whose City Council must first sign a contract with South San Francisco, prisoners are being taken to Daly City, and booked there, under a temporary arrangement between the two police chiefs.

The preliminary agreement was negotiated under the select police services coordination project which allows the four northern San Mateo County cities to operate an expanded probation and "no-bail" project at the Daly City facility.

Meanwhile, talks are in progress this week between South San Francisco City Manager Ed Alario and County Manager Marty Tarshes, over the possibility of the county erecting a North County holding the facility and sheriff's sub-station under a joint powers authority with the city. The project also would include a new central firehouse and police station.

THE BOARD of Corrections listed five major complaints regarding the jail:

—The safety (isolation) cell is five feet 10 inches by six feet 8 inches. Under 1963 standards it must be two inches wider and seven inches longer. In addition, a simple hole in the floor of the cell does not meet the regulation of a safety cell toilet.

—There are no shower facilities. There should be one shower for every eight prisoners, according to regulations.

—The bunks are 24 inches wide; they should be 30 inches.

—The gun locker is inside the security area. Regulations state it must be outside the area.

—The drunk tank should be fully padded, and include a support partition next to the toilet.

Police Captain Ray McKeown said the jail "really isn't all that bad.

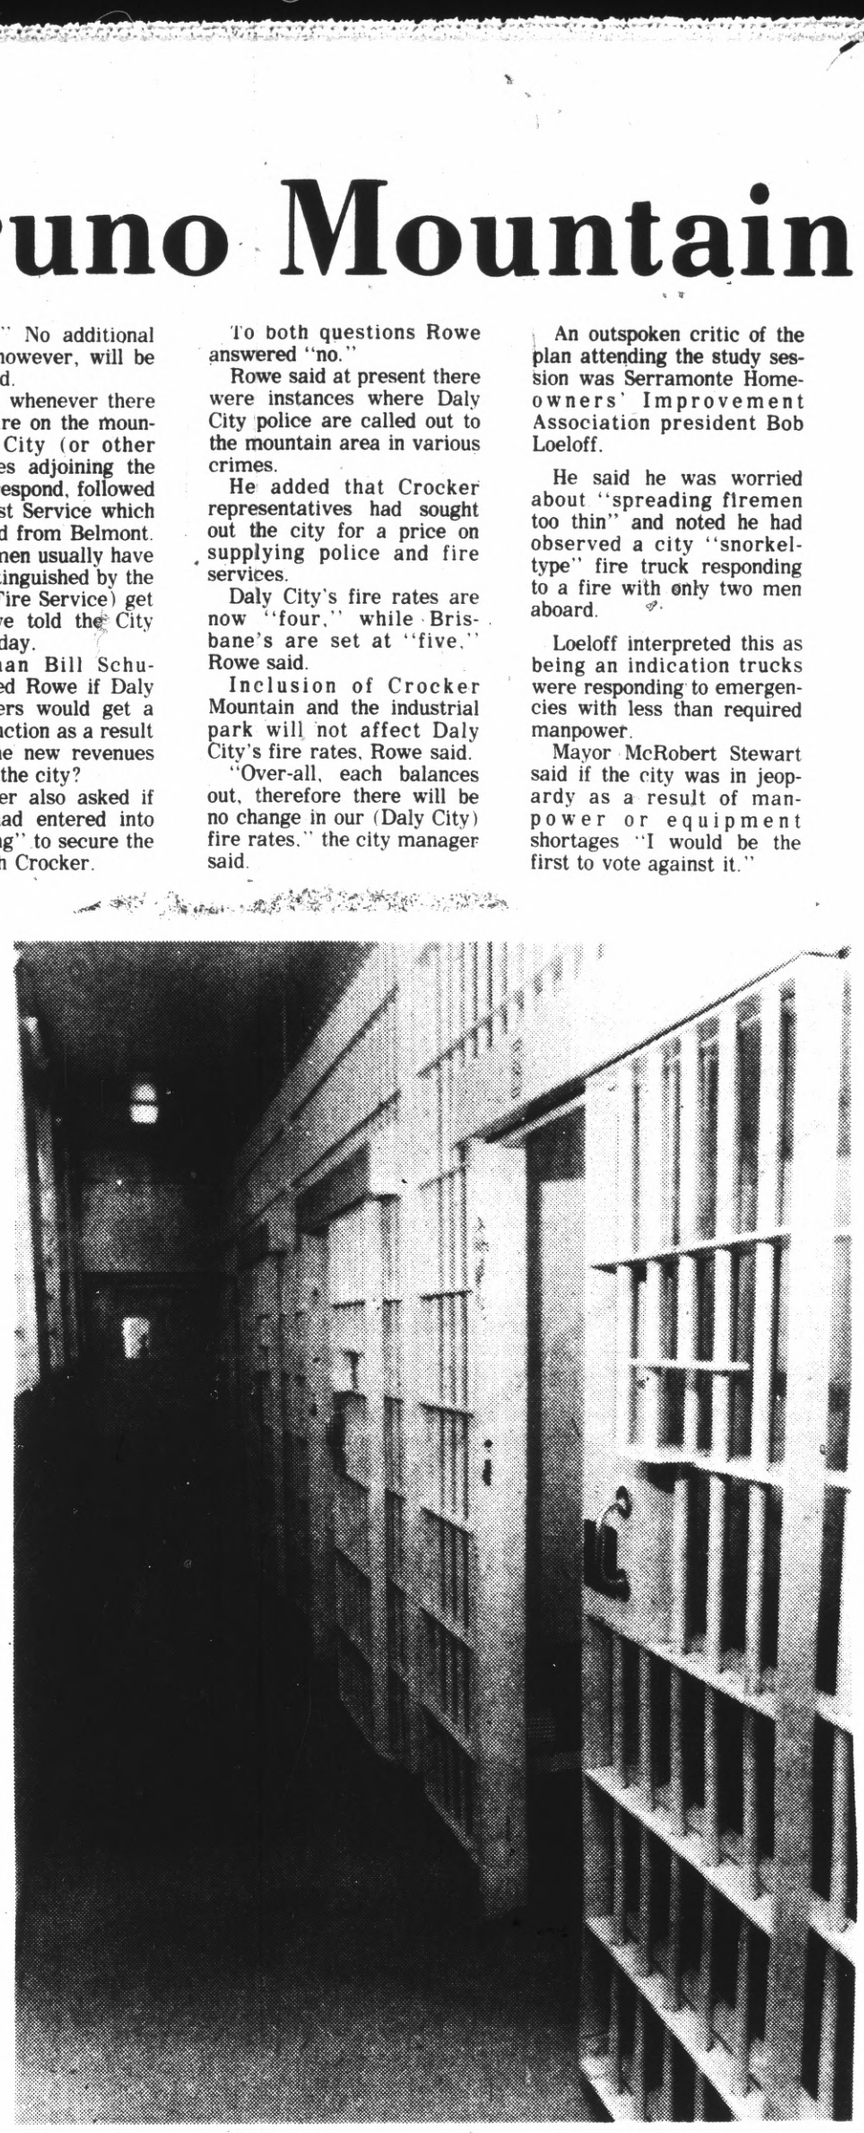
"It is far cleaner than the county jail," he pointed out. "Many prisoners prefer being at the city jail, since it is quiet and they don't get hassled."

They also like the lack of kitchen facilities, apparently preferring the Grand Avenue doughnuts for breakfast and "MacDonaldburgers" for dinner, over the usual jail fare, McKeown said.

At one time, Pacifica, as well as Broadmoor and Brisbane police departments shared use of the South San Francisco Jail. However, with conversion of the women's cells for police storage, the City Jail no longer had the capacity to house prisoners from other cities.

The jail, located in the southern portion of the police station, has a drunk tank and 12 cells, including two juvenile cells and four women's cells.

Closing of the jail will mean additional expense that has not been budgeted, it was explained. However, councilmen did not hesitate in excepting the expense last week when Alario told them elected and appointed officials were personally liable for injury to prisoners detained in the jail.



A STATE DEPARTMENT of Corrections report issued last week stated the South San Francisco City Jail is substandard, and the City Council says it will close the facility "as soon as possible."

SSF to Build New Police-Fire Facility

South San Francisco councilmen voted, 4-1, Monday night to build the proposed police-fire facility.

They acted shortly after adopting a resolution stating that a $4½ million bond issue to finance construction of the police-fire facility had failed to achieve the necessary two-thirds vote on June 4.

Dan Acosta, head of the Vigilant Voters Committee, complained that shortly before the special election, when he announced his opposition, "I predicted it would be built even if it were defeated."

He asked Mayor Terry Mirri the purpose of a two-thirds vote. Mirri replied that where a long-range tax increase is to be considered, the voters had to show an overwhelming mandate.

"Perhaps 63.8 per cent can also be considered an overwhelming mandate," he added.

(The bond issue had received 6,509 "yes" votes to 3,682 "no" votes.)

Councilman Leo Padreddii, who cast the sole "no" vote, explained he had backed the bond issue to the hilt, but did not believe he should go against the will of the people.

Mayor Terry Mirri said he looked at that mandate carefully, and decided that the election was actually on the method of financing, rather than the fire-police facility itself.

The council authorized City Manager Ed Alario to begin immediately to seek financing along two fronts. Alario explained that both methods would take time to set up, although probably not as long as it would to hold a second election. Working on two methods of financing would enable the city to complete the method which would work out best.

They were:

Lease-Purchase. Alario would set up a non-profit corporation to finance and build the facility and lease it to the city. The interest would be slightly higher than General Obligation bonds, and the payments must come out of the general fund. According to Finance Director Stan Bara, the payments could only come out of services.

Joint Powers Authority. When two governmental bodies sign an agreement setting up such an authority, they can issue bonds without holding an election. These would be general obligation bonds.

Alario reported he had met with County Manager Marty Tarshes to explore the possibility the county might build the jail as its North County detention facility.

Besides saving the city $1 million ($600,000 for building, $400,000 for land), the city and county in a joint powers agreement could issue bonds.

The county supervisors have not yet considered the proposal, Alario said.

Even if the county were to build its facility at its North County courthouse in South San Francisco — or as an alternative, set up a prisoner transportation system — the city would save money, he added.

Another controversial aspect flared out in discussion involving the fate of three apartment houses located on the proposed jail

No Opposition to BART Parking Garage Plan

No public opposition was voiced last Wednesday to the design proposal for a $3.5 million multi-level parking garage at the Bay Area Rapid Transit District (BART) station in Daly City.

An outline of Garage plan, which will expand the parking capacity of the station's west lot from 450 cars to some 1,350 vehicles, was presented by Robert Engle of Conrad Associates at the Daly City city hall.

Plans call for the structure to be built in two phases in an area currently used as a parking lot for the station.

Phase one will temporarily eliminate 250-300 car spaces during its estimated seven-month construction period.

The parking capacity will have been expanded by the time phase two construction starts, Engle noted.

A traffic survey of the Daly City station area disclosed that some 1,400 cars are parked either in BART's two lots or on side streets surrounding the station.

Station parking capacities are now only 800 cars. Thus, some 600 additional vehicles are scattered in the neighborhood outside the station, Engle said.

The new facility will eliminate this, while perhaps attracting new business by luring motorists off adjacent IR-280 and encouraging them to ride the BART, Engle said.

The structure will be three levels with a sloping floor design, rather than with ramps to go from one level to another, it was explained.

Exterior design will be similar to the curved effect of two award-winning freeway overpasses in the nearby Mary's Help Hospital area.

Chairman of the public hearing, Richard J. Shepard, BART's secretary, told the small audience at the session that the garage was being paid for through a federal aid grant, California Department of Transportation monies, and a joint Daly City-BART venture entered into about two years ago.

Chamber Backs BART Parking

The Board of Directors of the Daly City Chamber of Commerce has endorsed the new parking facility planned for the Bay Area Rapid Transit District station on John Daly Boulevard.

The directors took their unanimous action at a July 11 meeting in Daly City, after hearing a report from their staff on the garage.

Pacifican Wanted for Bronze Doors Theft

Savage said a San Jose scrap dealer positively identified McLean as one of two men who delivered eight of the stolen doors, taken over a three day period beginning last week, from family crypts at Home of Peace Cemetery.

The police chief said another scrap dealer in San Jose had partially cut up four other crypt doors.

"It will be like putting a jigsaw puzzle together," a Broadmoor police officer said.

Eight of the doors, each weighing about 200 pounds and boasting fine filigree work, have been recovered at a San Jose scrap yard in good shape.

Ruben Germaine, owner of the City Metals & Salvage Company in San Jose, became suspicious after he bought the doors for some $1,100 from two men, he told San Jose police.

The doors were stolen from family mausoleums on three occasions two weeks ago — Monday, Wednesday and Saturday — according to a spokesman for the cemetery.

Savage said earlier he felt the doors were taken in broad daylight by professionals "who knew their business."

The handcrafted doors were made around the turn of the century and are considered more valuable as col-

Another DC Policeman Honored for Heroism

Bridges reportedly braved smoke and flames to assist Jackie O'Conner, a trapped occupant of a Terrace View apartment house.

The victim was unable to find her way out of the second story apartment she lived in.

Officer Bridges was first on the scene and went from one apartment to another trying to locate any trapped persons inside.

Several firemen, including Battalion Chief Wayne Alexander, praised Bridges for his quick action which apparently resulted in saving the trapped woman.

"Had (she) gone into a state of panic and jumped from the balcony, she might have been killed or seriously injured. The drop from the balcony is more than 35 feet to a concrete driveway," Police Lt. Tom Culley wrote in a report to Acting Police Chief David Hansen.

"(Bridges) risked his own life on behalf of others, going way beyond what would be expected of him," Culley said.

Lt. George Stanton, of the Atherton police Department, President of the Peninsula Police Officers Association, presented Bridges with a plaque honoring him for his actions at a recent meeting of the Association.

Bridges is the sixth Daly City police officer to have received the heroism award.

No Opposition to BART Parking

for the project, it was revealed.

Regardless of whether structure bids received are higher than budgeted, Daly City will not have to come up with more money, according to Sheppard.

The garage talks have actually been on-going for the past four years.

It had been at first anticipated that BART would have a larger parking capacity than was finally realized after plans for the station were amended over the years.

Since 1970 the garage discussion has been bounced from one government agency to another, each time gaining support.

Only recently did the federal government take action necessary to allocate monies needed to build the facility, officials said.

Streets around the BART station were designed for heavier traffic flow loads than they now carry, Howard Goode, BART's senior planner, said.

For this reason no large-scale improvement of roads in the immediate vicinity of the station are anticipated, he said.

Effects on growth were studied along with traffic volume, Goode said.

And while there will be "some impact," Goode does not think it will be significant.

The garage, by its location and design, will not be visible from either east or south of the station, Engle said.

It will, in effect, be "tucked down" between IR-280 (Junipero Serra Freeway) and the BART station, he said.

Goode, responding to a question asked from a resident of South Mayfair Avenue, said there was not expected to be any parking charges at the garage.

He said the only charges, in fact, allowed by the Federal Government were for maintenance of the structure.

Developer Hugh Smith, who has been pushing proposals for construction of a parking lot on an 11-acre lot near Thornton Beach and Highway One, asked if any thought had been given to his suggestion.

Both Goode and Howard Shu, of the State Department of Transportation, said government fringe parking monies could not be used for the site, owned by the state about a mile from the station.

Shu said he felt the BART station garage was "proceeding most expeditiously."

Lighting will aid in security at the garage and all pedestrian stairwells would be visible from the station, Engle explained.

BART police will be responsible for providing protection of the station area, Goode said.

An Officer With a Talent for Framing

By FRANK LaPIERRE

There is a Daly City policeman who is in the business of framing — on his own time, of course!

Mendiara has only been painting "seriously" since December, but already has caught the eye of art experts and the public who like his work.

His first showing is now on display at Peninsula Hospital where part of the proceeds from any sale go toward the Hospital Fund.

Burlingame artist Edna Van Koughnet discovered the 33-year-old Mendiara and continues to encourage him, the officer said.

Mendiara, a seven year veteran of the Daly City Police Department, is married and has a month old child.

He says he has been interested in drawing since he was a child.

When he retires from the department he intends to devote more of his time to painting, Mendiara said.

Meanwhile, the talented peace officer spends his leisure time painting quiet landscapes in oils with a palette knife and his working days trying to keep peace around the city.

site on Grand and Chestnut avenues.

The city owns the apartment houses and rents to about 18 tenants.

Councilman Frank Mammini expressed concern over the city's position because of terms under which it would sell the buildings only to the former property owners, instead of to the highest bidder.

The matter arose when Alario recommended that the City Council authorize a 60-day extension to an option held by Oak Farm Inc. and Roy Uccelli to buy back the buildings at a set price. The option was due to die that night, he told the council.

CITY ATTY. John Noonan, questioned as to the legality of the arrangement, said the option appeared to be part of the term of sale and helped bring about a lower price.

Councilmen voted to extend the option to the Aug. 5 meeting, when they hope to have more information.

Loss estimates resulting from the thefts have ranged from $35,000 up to $75,000.

The men, purportedly known to San Jose police as metal thieves, concentrated their thefts in the quiet northeast corner of the cemetery where some of the Bay Area's most prominent families are entombed.

In at least one instance, someone not only removed the doors but vandalized the interior of the crypt, police said.

Marble sides of the tomb of Nettie E. R. Rosenbaum, who died in 1938, have been chipped.

A cemetery spokesman said repairs to the mausoleums could run into the thousands of dollars.

New locks, handles and hinges will have to be manufactured and installed, police said.

Motel Fire

No one was injured in a fast-moving fire that heavily damaged a unit at the Golden Gate Motel and Trailer Park, 7301 Mission St., Daly City shortly after 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Cause of the blaze is still under investigation, according to Battalion Chief Mel Hansen.

Damage has been estimated at $5,500, Hansen said.

Romeo Nicora, occupant of the unit, was visiting a brother in San Jose when the fire broke out, Hansen said.

Colma Names Police Chief

Jimmy Lee Dorris, a 38-year-old Angel's Camp, California police sergeant has been selected by Colma to be its new police chief.

Dorris, married and with a 14-year-old daughter, has been in the Angel's Camp Police Department for the past 10 months.

Before that assignment, he was with the San Pablo police department for some 10 years.

Angel's Camp has a five man force.

Colma has a two man force — the chief and patrolman Raymond Ottoboni.

Brisbane May Face Manpower Cutbacks

If the contract for police and fire protection to the Guadalupe Valley Municipal Improvement District is shifted from Brisbane to Daly City it could result in dramatic manpower cuts in that small bayside city, the Post has learned.

Acting Brisbane City Manager Dutch Moritz said perhaps upwards of six men would have to be pared from the city's total of 33 city employees.

The cuts would likely come in the police, fire and public works departments, it was explained.

School Chief, Taxes Face JESD

The choosing of a new superintendent and the consideration of a tax increase request on the November ballot will be the two key matters facing the Jefferson Elementary School Board of Trustees the next few weeks.

Board President Beverly Forrester said last Wednesday the candidates for superintendent have been narrowed to three and that a final decision is expected in two weeks.

The board members interviewed seven appliances for the post last Tuesday in a marathon six hour session. The seven finalists had been chosen from a total of 50 who applied.

Forrester said both the citizen and professional advisory committees concurred in selecting the top three. After each committee held its interview of the seven, the members used a grading system to evaluate each applicant in various areas.

"Surprisingly," Forrester said, "the three who ranked highest on the citizens committee also were ranked highest by the professional committee."

According to Forrester, all seven applicants were qualified for the position, but that the decision was made on how they would fit in with the school district and the community.

The new superintendent will replace Superintendent Keith Breon, who is leaving the district this summer.

As for the tax situation, the board took the first step toward a decision on whether to ask voters for a tax increase on the November ballot when it agreed to form a citizens advisory committee to study the proposal.

That move by the board came after Business Manager John Lynch projected a bleak financial picture of program and service cutbacks, and a whopping mushrooming annual deficit that would reach over $5 million by 1977-78 if more revenue is not acquired.

Lynch also predicted that at least one school would have to close each year because of loss of personnel and programs, and a drop in enrollment. Although admitting the forecast was a hypothesis, he warned that it had plenty of merit.

Lynch blamed the financial problem on both a "rapid inflation and the restrictions on school financing imposed by SB 90." That state legislation tied school district income to enrollment, which is declining at JESD. It also requires that to raise additional funds, approval is needed by the district's voters.

Two on-going grant projects, one for an occupational alcoholism program and the other for Project Outreach, have been continued for another year through action of the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

An agreement with the National Council on Alcoholism (NCA) will result in a $17,000 program to assist employers in the county in developing occupational alcoholism programs.

In his recommendation, County Director of Health and Welfare Dr. George Pickett estimated that there are 11,300 alcoholics employed within the county.

Through the agreement, the NCA will provide consultation to at least 15 county employers with 100 or more employes to assist them in developing occupational alcoholism programs.

The program includes assisting the employer in assessing the problem, developing policies and procedures to deal with the problem, training supervisory personnel and establishing liason between the employer and treatment sources.

In addition to providing the consultation services to large employers, the NCA also will develop two similar programs for groupings of small employers.

Ninety per cent of the cost of the program will come from state alcoholism program funds, with the county paying $1,700.

An allocation totaling a maximum of $7,308 will be paid Project Outreach, a largely volunteer program of providing a 24-hour telephone answering and referral service for people facing personal or family crises and don't choose or know how to directly contact the assistance they need.

Crises dealth with include mental illness, pregnancy, drug abuse, arrest and venereal disease.

Former GI Dan Lucero Arrested Again in DC

Daniel T. Lucero, the 21-year-old ex-soldier from Pacifica who has been trying to gain custody of his illegitimate son for over a year, was arrested by Daly City police last week.

It was the second time in less than three months Lucero has had scrapes with the law.

In April, 1974 he was arrested by South San Francisco police on burglary charges.

The latest charges against Lucero involve a burglary warrant issued by the Stockton police; possession of stolen property, and possession of a hypodermic needle police say they found in a car Lucero was driving at the time of his arrest.

Arresting officer James Mendiara listed 26 items found in Lucero's car ranging from Greek silver coins to "three old religious medals."

Also allegedly found in the car was a checkbook which may have been taken in the burglary of a Santa Clara County woman's car during a visit to San Francisco in May, Mendiara reported.

Along with Lucero at the time of his arrest was Robert Burt Hanneman, 26, of 281 Price St., Apt. 3, Daly City.

Hannenman was arrested on outstanding San Francisco traffic warrants.

Officer Mendiara said he was on routine patrol when he spotted Lucero's car shortly after 11 p.m. Saturday behind a local drive-in restaurant.

Mendiara and other Daly City police had been issued an all-points bulletin on Lucero's car the day before it was learned.

Mendiara stopped the car on Geneva Avenue near Rio Verde Street several minutes later and arrested the pair.

Lucero's child custody case has been bounced from one court to another in recent years.

The State District Court of Appeal earlier this year stayed an order of San Mateo County Superior Court Judge G. Brooks Ice, which awarded sole custody of Lucero's three-year-old son to him, rather than allow the child to remain in the care of foster parents.

Judge Ice's decision was appealed to the higher court by Dep. District Attorney Carolee Houser, representing the County Adoptive Agency which placed the child in the care of the foster parents.

Houser contends Lucero failed to legitimatize his son under provisions of the State Civil Code.

In March, 1973, Superior Court Judge Melvin E. Cohn had ruled to award the child to Lucero, but stayed the order until Lucero was discharged from the military and could establish residence in the county.

Following his discharge, Lucero established residence with his mother in Pacifica and then sought court action to gain custody of the child.

The action was opposed by the district attorney's office.

Bail has been set for Lucero, in this latest incident, at $1,000. He is being held in the county jail at Redwood City.

Louis Papan Named To Rules Committee

It was announced last week that Assemblyman Louis J. Papan (D-San Mateo County) has been appointed to the Assembly Rules Committee.

Coming as one of newly-elected Speaker Leo McCarthy's first appointments, Papan is only the fourth freshman to hold a seat on the Rules Committee since the turn of the century.

Papan said, "Because of my close working relationship with Speaker McCarthy and my appointment to the Rules Committee, I believe the people of San Mateo County will have an even stronger voice in Sacramento."

New Supervisors May Face '76 Election if Bid Voted

Should an initiative petition seeking to have county supervisors elected by district be approved by the voters, it is possible that two supervisors-elect may have to stand for election again in 1976.

This is the interpretation of the petition wording by chief civil Dept. Dist. Atty. L. M. Summey.

However, there are a lot of "ifs" in the situation, Summey indicated.

First of all, at least 21,000 signatures of San Mateo County voters are needed on the petition by the July 19 deadline for submitting the initiative to County Clerk-Recorder Marvin Church if the proposals are to be placed on the ballot in the Nov. 5 general election.

Secondly, if the petition is successful, voters then must approve its proposals, to increase the membership on the Board of Supervisors from the present five to seven and to have members elected by district, rather than at large, as is presently the case.

Third, John M. Ward and Edward J. Bacciocco Jr., who were elected to the second and third supervisorial district posts respectively on the Board of Supervisors in last June's primary election, would have to stand for election again in 1976 should it be determined that they failed to carry the districts from which they were elected and that portion of the present districts which would be combined to form the new districts.

Both Ward and Bacciocco failed to carry their respective district in the primary election, but won countywide.

Summey said it would take some precise drawing of boundaries for the new districts and some extensive

If the two did win in the realigned districts, then they would not have to stand election again until 1978, should they decide to seek re-election. If they didn't carry the realigned districts, they would have to stand election to complete the remainder of their four-year terms.

Daly City Businessman Found Hanged, Shot

The father of a Daly City businessman made a bizarre discovery after he forced his way into his son's home at 1224 South Mayfair Ave. Sunday.

William Harrington found his son, Edward, hanging from an overhead support beam with a gunshot wound in his chest. At his feet lay a 38 caliber revolver, police said.

Coroner's Supervisor Robert Cole said Harrington, sole occupant of the home in Daly City's Westlake District, had been dead for several days.

Pinned to another beam in the garage of the home was a suicide note, Cole said.

The contents were not revealed by Cole.

Apparently Harrington, owner of the Westlake Glass Co. first had tied the rope around his neck while standing on the garage floor. He then shot himself in the chest and as he collapsed the rope held him, Cole said.

The father told police he had not seen his son since July 6. When he went to visit him Sunday he had to force his way into the home.

The victim was divorced and had no children. He operated his company out of his home, it was learned.

Scouting At Serramonte

Don Zyski, Scouting Showcase '74 chairman, has announced a large advance sign-up for the Northern District fall celebration of Scouting to be held on the Serramonte Mall Sept. 21 and 22.

Twelve packs and 16 Scout units already are committed to display action and entertainment for the Scouting Showcase.

Pedro Park Plans Unveiled

Plans depicting trout ponds, loop trails and an interpretive center on the future 1,000-acre San Pedro Valley Park were presented in Pacifica Wednesday.

Maps, charges and architectural renditions were presented by Herb Schall of EDAW Inc. of San Francisco, at the San Mateo County Park and Recreation Commission hearing.

Negotiation with St. Peter's Catholic Church on Oddstad Boulevard for acquisition of enough land for a suitable entrance to the park is planned. An alternative entrance would be north of the creek, along the road to the North Coast Water District's filter plant.

In addition to picnic areas, the park will have a day camp center, with chemical restrooms and a shelter.

Overnight parking will be banned, except by special arrangement.

The plan also shows a park headquarters center, which will include displays and information interpreting the ecology of the park. Particular attention will be paid to the steelhead which breed in San Pedro Creek.

Proposed are a trout pond and a system of loop trails, including one that takes hikers to the hard-to-reach San Pedro Falls.

The next hearing will be part of the regular County Parks and Recreation Commission meeting, in Redwood City at 2 p.m., Aug. 14.

Getting Results From Better Business Bureau

By LORENE BEASLEY
Editor, BBB Barometer

According to figures of a Roper Report released July 1, 50 per cent of the public questioned in the nationwide survey "volunteered" the answer that they would go to their Better Business Bureau if they could not get satisfaction from the store or manufacturer — more than four times as many as would turn to the next organization.

Respondents shown a list of organizations and asked which they thought would be the most likely one to achieve satisfaction for a consumer complaint, placed newspapers, radio or TV in second place.

Following organizations placed in the survey: state or city Consumer Protection Agency, 10 per cent; lawyer, 10 per cent; attorney general or district attorney, 6 per cent; Federal Office of Consumer Affairs, 4 per cent; Chamber of Commerce, 3 per cent; Ralph Nader, 2 per cent; Federal Trade Commission, 1 per cent. Five per cent of the respondents answered they would do nothing about a complaint. Sixteen per cent replied they did not know what they would do.

John W. Macy Jr., president of Better Business Bureaus, in commenting on the report, noted that while it is "gratifying" to know that a full half of the population has such confidence in the Better Business Bureaus he was concerned with the figures, one out of five persons would not do anything or wouldn't know what to do when faced with a problem over a major purchase.

"Additionally," Macy said, "we are concerned that relatively fewer members of the non-white population, and those with only a grade school education, would turn to a local Better Business Bureau for help."

Such factors are the key reason why the Better Business Bureaus have been placing so much of their energies into reaching the consumer through mass media, particularly on radio, with self-help information and informing them of Better Business Bureau facilities and services.

Free to all with preferential seating for those under 16 and over 60, this is a continuation of the free film and theater series featured at the Museum every Tuesday and Thursday during July and August. RECENT NEWLYWEDS are Robert and Regina Spadarella of Daly City. They were married June 9 at St. Peter and Paul's Church in San Francisco and are now residing in Daly City following a honeymoon in Hawaii. The bride is the former Regina Ruggieri of San Francisco. Her matron of honor was her sister Mrs. Emma Giammona. The best man was the groom's brother Anthony. Robert is the manager of Toto's Restaurants Inc.

Mexico City Honeymoon Destination for Couple

Mexico City is the honeymoon destination of Mr. and Mrs. John Francis Gallagher who were married Saturday at 6 p.m. at Our Lady of Angels Church in Burlingame.

The bride is the former Shirley Lizabeth Kaprielian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Kaprielian of Burlingame. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Gallagher of South San Francisco.

Shirley recited her vows in a gown of ivory organdy with a lace and pearl-detailed bodice and lace flowerettes around the hem. She added a lace mantilla and carried ivory roses, pink carnations and Bristol fairy.

Pam Richardson, the honor attendant, wore a short-sleeved A-line peasant dress in lime green with ivory lace detailing. She carried white and pink carnations.

The same gowns and flowers were chosen by the four bridesmaids, Karen Gallagher, sister of the bridegroom; Matilda Gharagozian, cousin of the bride; and Penny Yaste and Karen Cruse.

Chuck Emmaneel was best man and ushering duties were shared by Bill Morris, brother of the bridegroom; Michael Kaprielian, brother of the bride; and Terry Jewell Atillio Sanini and Bob Hansen.

The bride, a graduate of the College of San Mateo, is majoring in biology at San Francisco State University. The bridegroom received his business degree from San Francisco State. He is also the brother of Bob Morris.

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

Last week we featured cool salads for summer days, and what happened? The day the column appeared we were having most unusual weather, cold rains in July. Today as I write it's warm and sunny, but I won't be beguiled by that. We will consider a recipe for chicken and a delicious raisin cake, neither of which demand any special weather to appreciate.

The chicken dish is easy to fix, cooks quickly and has a sauce that's terrific.

CHICKEN AND OLIVES

- 2½ to 3 pound frying chicken
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 4 Tablespoons oil or shortening
- ½ cup chopped onions
- 1 large stalk celery, chopped
- 2 Tablespoons minced parsley
- 1 2½-oz. can sliced ripe olives, drained
- 1 teaspoon dried rosemary
- ½ teaspoon dried thyme
- 1 bay leaf
- 2 cups white wine
- 3 Tablespoons cornstarch
- 4 to 6 servings cooked rice

Use a covered frying pan. Clean and disjoint chicken, sprinkle with salt and pepper. Brown in the four tablespoons oil. Add the half cup chopped onions, chopped celery, two and one-half ounces sliced ripe olives, one teaspoon rosemary, one-half teaspoon thyme and two cups white wine. Cover and simmer gently for an hour or until chicken is tender.

Just before serving arrange chicken pieces on serving dish. Thicken sauce slightly with three tablespoons cornstarch dissolved in a small amount cold water. Serve sauce over cooked rice.

This amount serves 4 to 6, so our family had enough to serve another meal. I placed the rice in a flat baking dish, topped with the chicken and the sauce. Heated it thoroughly in a 350-degree oven, and it was just as good the second time around.

TRUDY'S RAISIN CAKE

- 1 cup raisins
- 1½ cups water

Combine the one cup raisins and one and one-half cups water in saucepan and boil for 15 minutes. Set aside to cool.

- ¾ cup sugar
- ½ cup butter (1 cube)
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- ¾ cup liquid from raisins
- 1 teaspoon soda dissolved in ¼ cup cold water
- 1½ cups flour
- ½ teaspoon each cinnamon, nutmeg, nutmet, ginger and allspice
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup chopped nuts

In large mixing bowl cream the three-fourths cup sugar and one cube butter. Add the two well beaten eggs and cream again. Add the three-fourths cup liquid from raisins and one teaspoon soda dissolved in one-fourth cup water. Add the one and one-half cups flour, one-half teaspoon each cinnamon, cloves, nutmeg, ginger and allspice. Stir in the one teaspoon vanilla and one cup chopped nuts. Pour into 9x9-inch well greased and lightly floured pan. Bake in 350-degree oven 35 minutes, or until cake tests done. Cool and frost.

FROSTING

- 2 cups powdered sugar
- 1 Tablespoon butter
- 1 egg, beaten
- ½ teaspoon vanilla

In small mixer bowl combine the two cups sugar and one tablespoon butter. Add the beaten egg and one-half teaspoon vanilla. Beat well.

County Is Short of Teenage Volunteers

San Mateo County has developed a new shortage, and it is proving to be acute. The county needs many more volunteer teenage part-time workers than it has, according to Mrs. M. M. Belton, executive director of the Volunteer Bureau Voluntary Action Center of San Mateo County.

The reason is that San Mateo County depends on its teenage population to help operate such summer programs as day camps, swimming, music and craft lessons, plus a variety of hospital and municipal jobs. (The City of Burlingame is using high school students to survey its new bus system, for example.)

This year, all the special summertime services are planned, but without teenage help, many of them will have to close. Day camps for the handicapped, for instance, need enough willing help to operate on a one-to-one basis or they cannot operate effectively. And there is not enough help.

Hours and even parts of the summer are flexible, so a person can choose whatever will conform best with vacation plans. Jobs needing help from both boys and girls are located throughout the county, and students from the San Mateo Union High School District have the option of receiving school credit for their work.

Hours may be short, but pay is non-existent. These are volunteer jobs, offering experience and satisfaction, but no paycheck. They are a little-publicized example of how interdependent the lives and activities of our community really are. Depending on teenagers as they do, county programs — and their greateful recipients — fold withot such help. That is the danger now.

Playground Trips

Daly City playground youngsters will have a chance to frolic in the sun and enjoy juicy watermelons.

Next week, trips have been scheduled for Don Castro Recreation Area (July 23 and 24) and Shadow Cliffs Recreation Area (July 25). Both areas feature a large beach and swimming area, grassy picnic areas, fishing spots, hiking trails and concession stands. Shadow Cliffs also offers boat rentals.

Both areas are operated by the East Bay Regional Park District. Don Castro is located just east of Castro Valley and Shadow Cliffs is in Pleasanton.

Youngsters seven years and older may sign up for the trip at their local playground or park. The cost is $1.50 for all participants. This covers admission, watermelons, transportation and trip insurance. Signups must be made at least two days in advance.

Interested children should contact their local playground for information, or call the Daly City Recreation Department at 992-5356.

The Daly City Friends of the Library wound up a busy season of activities with a warm and happy salute to the local Philippine community.

Mrs. Michael Daw was the chairwoman of the planning committee which put together the program of cultural activities. Mrs. James Hough was the committee assistant chairwoman and Mrs. Miriam Ericson was the chairwoman of the exhibit.

Taking part in the varied presentations were the members of the Jefferson High School Filipino Club. Nelia Perez, president of that club, and others from the school presented an exhibition of fashions from the islands.

Mrs. Sabina Day, vice president of the Filipino American Association of Northern San Mateo County gave a historical resume and provided background material prior to the showing of a film.

The Filipino Youth of the Filipino American Association of Northern San Mateo County performed two dances, Binasuan and Nasudi. Vocal solos were given by Felino Silveriao.

A number of choral renditions were given by the Pag Asa choral group of St. Patrick's church. Mrs. Rose De La Clazada, president, Rudy Valeros and Milo Duazo conducted and accompanied the ensemble. The Bamboo dance was the finale of the program and it was done by Marcelino Enriquez the president of the Filipino American Association of Northern San Mateo County.

NEWEST MEMBER of the Daly City Rotary is Jack Redslob, assistant manager of the Security Pacific Bank.

THE PACIFICA Spindrift Players conclude their production run of "Animal Farm" this weekend.

The "readers theater" production of the George Orwell play will be presented on Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:30 p.m. in the Oddstad Park Center, 1000 block of Crespi Drive. Tickets at the door.

BE PREPARED for a few shocks if you go shopping on Friday or Saturday in the Serramonte Shopping Center!

On tap for this weekend is a wild event entitled employees costume contest, and the young lady who rings up your sale or the young man who asks to assist you may be costumed in anything from a King Kong outfit to a playboy "bunny" type creation. The idea is to enliven the scene and shake us all out of our summer letheragy.

SPEAKING of shopping centers, shopping centermanager Maurice Wahba and his wife are home from a trip to Hong Kong.

Elsie was barely unpacked before she was talking about making plans for her next island hopping adventure.

Open House For The Ebys

Open House for the Forest Ebys will be sponsored by the Daly City Garden Club, July 21, at 1137 Hillside Blvd., South San Francisco, from 1 to 5 p.m.

The public is invited.

Eby has a covered patio garden. His garden consists of fuchsias, a variety of ferns and tuberous begonias, displaying an array of colors.

A Big Year for The Cow Palace

Plans announced for the 30th annual Grand National Livestock Exposition disclose the Cow Palace event this year will be the richest "red meat" show in U.S. history for exhibitors, with a record high $125,000 in premium offerings.

Several other national shows top that total, but include awards for poultry and other specialties, General Manager Lex Connelly said. He predicted more than 2,600 head of beef cattle, sheep and swine would be exhibited. Grand National dates are Oct. 25 through Nov. 3.

One new feature will be the first Western showing and breeding stock sales of the "exotic" Maine Anjou and Limousin cattle from France, noted for their quick development of weight and lean muscle. A repeat exhibit of Brahmans, shown last year for the first time, also is scheduled.

Connelly predicted an expanded entry of Charolais head, noting that the Cow Palace event recently was designated one of only seven Roll of Excellence shows nationally for the breed.

Sheep also are slated for increasing attention at this year's Grand National. Connelly predicted last year's entry list of over 1,000 head will nearly double. Premiums for the National Hampshire Show have been increased to $6,000, making it the richest breed offering ever held in North America.

To make room for the expanded "red meat" exhibits, the Grand National will drop dairy cattle for the first time — a move Connelly described as "in keeping with the times and our responsibilities to California livestock people."

"Every contribution we can make to the advancement of red meat animals, in the sense of helping the industry breed larger, more efficient stock, ultimately translates into lower priced meat on the family dinner table."

Teen Trip to State Park

The Daly City Recreation Department is sponsoring an outing to Samuel B. Taylor State Park in Marin for high school age teens July 20.

This park offers rustic hiking trails, streams for fishing and swimming, and barbeque facilities.

Bus pick-up points are Westmoor Park, War Memorial Community Center and Midway at 10 a.m. Approximate return time is 6 p.m. The fee is $1.75 and covers transportation, insurance and refreshments.

Flyers with permit slips are available at any Daly City playground or recreation center.

For details, contact the Recreation Office at 992-5356.

SSF Planners Delay Shopping Center Talks

The South San Francisco Planning Commission reluctantly delayed the hearing on a controversial proposed shopping center July 9 to the dismay of about 150 residents in attendance who opposed the project.

The commission tabled the matter when Michael Couch, project manager for Sutter Hill Ltd., the shopping center developer, said his firm was not prepared to present its final plans.

It was indicated that the hearing probably will be held sometime within the next 30 to 90 days.

The proposed site for the shopping center is a nearly seven-acre area at Westborough Boulevard and El Camino Real, behind the New Southern Restaurant.

When the crowd, many of whom had to stand in the small meeting room at the West Orange Library, heard that the developer was not ready, there were jeers and shouts.

The residents were disturbed because they had not been properly notified that the developer was not ready. Earlier in the day, Sutter Hill circulated leaflets saying the discussion of the shopping center was cancelled, according to George Jones, co-chairman of the Concerned Citizens of Southwood, which is composed of citizens who live in the area.

However, the matter still appeared on the agenda. The developer did not have the power to cancel an item, Jones said.

City Planner Neal Martin said the commission received a letter from Sutter Hill July 3 asking for a delay in the scheduled hearing. Most of the residents, though, didn't know of the delay request.

Jones, who is the manager of the Club View Apartments, located behind the proposed site, demanded Sutter Hill either "put up or shut up." The concerned citizens, some holding up placards — "Parks and Trees are Pretty, Stores are Ugly" — cheered. Jones also claimed Sutter Hill wanted to discourage the turnout by not being ready.

Couch apologized for the "confusion," but said more time was needed to put his presentation together for a public hearing. Couch's offer to notify the residents of the next meeting, when he would be ready, was met with cynical shouts of "I doubt it" from the audience.

But besides that confusion, there was another perplexing development involving the New Southern Restaurant, which is next to the proposed site. The restaurant's cooperation with Sutter Hill is seen as a necessity for the project to be built, because the developer must use its property to bring construction equipment onto the building site.

During the meeting, Jones read an affidavit signed by Marino and Julio Donati, owners of the restaurant, stating they did not intend to permit the use of their property for the commercial development. That news was applauded.

When contacted to explain their position, the Donati brothers said they would go along with the wishes of the surrounding neighbors.

"We will do what the people in our neighborhood want," Marino Donati said. He said they would only support the shopping center plan if the residents supported it.

Regardless of that situation, though, the residents' hopes of stopping the project rest on their ability to convince the commission of their arguments.

Jones said his group has speakers organized to support specific criticisms of the construction plans, including traffic, noise, and economic problems to appear at the hearing.

The commission did get a sampling of the citizens' side of the story when the commissioners allowed members of the audience to speak, despite Chairman T. O. Mathewson's warning it would turn into a one-sided hearing.

James Robinson, a retired civil engineer and a member of the nearby Our Redeemer's Lutheran Church, said he was concerned because developers plan to build a hamburger stand near the church.

Another speaker drew applause when he said the proposed shopping center was "detrimental to the entire city, not just the district." Other speakers asked for a definite date to be set for Sutter Hill to be ready with its plans.

The date for the hearing was sketchy. Couch said at the meeting he could be ready in 30 days, but later admitted he wasn't sure if he could meet that deadline.

As a result, it was decided that Couch would inform the commissioners and residents he is ready for a public hearing.

When the hearing does take place, the commission will consider the project as three items — the Environmental Impact Report, the rezoning of the land from "U" unclassified district to "C-1" neighborhood commercial district, and a general amendment plan to change from medium-high density to neighborhood commercial.

But the argument mainly comes down to the issue of whether the shopping center should be built.

Gregorio To Try Smoke Bill Again

A veto of Senate Bill 71 last week by Governor Ronald Reagan that would have allowed high schools to set aside special areas for student smoking means the bill will be tried again next year, its author said Monday.

State Senator Arlen F. Gregorio, D-San Mateo, added, however, that Reagan Friday vetoed another bill of his, SB 2450, that he considered "much more important" and that it was "unfortunate" the news media emphasized the smoking bill instead.

SB 2450 would have provided the state's half of the money this fiscal year for the Police Officers Standards Training programs at local community colleges. This is the major police training program for local officers, including rookies, and has been funded this way for 15 years.

Gregorio said he considered this bill important enough to amend into a school attendance accounting bill of his coming up in August. "This is the finest in-service police training program in the county and if we lose it because of cutting off of state meonty it's going to be a long time before we can build back up the kind of competence we've had," Gregorio said.

He claimed the amount involved is about $15 million, although the administration has said it might cost $25 million. The full cost could fall on the local property tax rolls, Gregorio said.

The bill was the outgrowth of a state Department of Finance edict in May that POST courses no longer qualified for education funds. Gregorio introduced the appropriation measure at the behest of the county Law Enforcement Association and it sailed through the Legislature without a single no vote.

The smoking bill would have eased the burden on school administrators by removing "a very difficult burden," Gregorio said. The only legal denial of tobacco products to youngsters now is prohibition of sales. But the law calls for suspension of students caught smoking at schools, making school people "the only ones in the state with this burden," he continued.

Smoking now is the leading cause of suspensions from school, Gregorio said.

Driver Held After Chase

A San Francisco woman was arrested Sunday in Millbrae after a wrong-way hit-run collision on Millbrae Avenue, and after a police chase up El Camino Real that ended when a San Bruno police officer deliberately stopped his patrol car in front of the woman's moving auto.

Beverly Joan Stanfill, 28, was booked at San Mateo County Jail on charges of hit and run driving involving an injury accident, and felony drunk driving. She was released after posting $2,500 bail.

Millbrae police said the incidents began when a car that was northbound on El Camino Real attempted a right-hand turn eastbound on Millbrae Avenue.

Overshooting the center line, the car smashed into an auto in which driver Gunter Heitmann, 1452 Drake Ave., Burlingame, was waiting at the stoplight.

Heitmann's auto slammed into another waiting car driven by Vincent P. Armanino, 825 Morningside Drive, Millbrae, and Heitman was injured.

The car which had hit Heitmann's continued down Millbrae Ave., eastbound in the westbound lanes, and made a left turn at Aviador. Police said they later learned it had turned again on Garden Lane, pulled into a driveway, and smashed into a fence.

As Millbrae Officer Michael Stines was investigating the crash, witnesses said the hit-run car was returning up Millbrae Avenue, and turning north on El Camino. He followed, radioing for assistance.

San Bruno Officer Mitchell J. Brown drove his car up El Camino Real in front of the car Stines was following, and slowed down.

He reported that the vehicle slammed into his twice.

'Water-Proofing' Babies

It Can Be Done

By VERA GRAHAM

Water-proofing babies?

That's right! It's done every day in Belmont, Monday through Friday.

And it's a sight to behold.

Here's a six-month-old tot, bobbing up and down complacently in the Olympic-size pool.

There's another, clinging to his mother and howling in protest.

And there's one, barely a year old. She's literally tossed into the water, whereupon she makes a small neat arc, surfaces, flips over on her back and floats blissfully on the surface, smiling at her mom. She sometimes takes a nap while floating around.

The younger the better, preferably starting at six months of age, says Bren Ferguson, pool manager for Belmont's Belameda Pool, 1100 Alameda de las Pulgas. The swim program is sponsored by the Belmont Recreation Department.

Ferguson stresses, "water-proofing" or "drown-proofing" a baby are catch phrases, but an impossibility. "No matter how well trained a child is, you always have to keep an eye out for him if there's water nearby."

"At the same time," Ferguson points out, "teaching babies to float on their back, to relax on the water, and teaching children to swim as early as possible, can mean the difference of minutes in the water, and that difference between confidence and fear is the difference between life and death."

Ferguson takes sharp issue with a report issued this month in the San Mateo County Department of Public Health Bulletin. It cites authorities who warn parents not to start children swimming until they are at least three-years-old.

Ferguson says there are plenty of authorities who can show that children's lives have been saved because of early training. Besides, he adds, few can dispute the fact that swimming is healthy exercise and helps develop strong, sturdy bodies.

The difference of opinion may resolve itself to a parental choice of whether their baby should be exposed to ear infections or other disease, or whether to give their baby a fighting chance against drowning.

Careful chlorination of the water minimizes the presence of bacteria, Ferguson says.

Most parents are delighted with the results of the early training, he adds.

San Mateo Police Officer Richard Freeman who's there with his pretty little daughter, Elizabeth, 3, says . . . "We have another little girl, Annette, 18-months old, and she's started the swim class too. We live near Marina Lagoon, and as any parents would, we're really afraid to turn our back for fear one or the other will get to the water. . . . And, not too long ago, I was on a search for a child who, it was feared, had drowned . . ."

Ferguson and the two young swimming teachers in the water, Linda Ashby, 23, and Debbie Seiler, 19, both of Belmont, agree that the purpose is not to try and teach a very small child how to swim. The object is to teach the child to float, to have confidence in the water.

CONFIDENCE in the water is the main goal of Belmont's "water-proofing" program for young children, but even the most confident swimmer can have his doubts, as the tot below suggests.

It is recognized that trained children may find the water more attractive and seek it. For this reason, a parent can't depend entirely on training to "drown-proof" any child, regardless of age.

The training involves the mothers, or fathers, as well as the children. The mothers are taught how to buoy up the baby, hand behind the head and back, supporting it in the water, and picking the baby up and hugging it for a while, then back down into the water. In time the tiny muscles relax and the baby begins to float. By then, it's a great treat.

Ferguson reminds, "After all we were all carried in a watery element before birth."

He adds that by the time a child is three, he or she has acquired parental fears, whether directly or indirectly. "Kids have a radar scope about their parents' reactions. We know immediately when a parent is afraid of water. Children read their eyes and faces so quickly. If a parent likes the water and is confident in it, the child learns much more quickly.

"As soon as a child can say 'No!', teaching him to swim is much more difficult. Then we have to adopt a different technique, one which takes a lot of time and patience," Ferguson explains.

Watching Linda hold a youngster and then suddenly swoop it into the water and towards his mother's arms is an experience. Ferguson explains that both verbal and physical signals are given to the baby to prepare it for the dive.

The experienced baby comes up with a watery but happy gurgle. The newcomer is only lightly submerged and comes up with a sputtering protest; but in due time he'll be floating over the waves, safe as in his cradle — providing someone's keeping an eye on him.

The water babies' class is for those six-months of age to two years, and the Tiny Tots class is for two to four-year-olds. By then, they're practically pros.

There is a fee charged. It's $10.50 for 10 lessons for non-residents, and $7.50 for the same series for Belmont residents.)

Teen Use of Liquor, Pot Increases

Use of most drugs among San Mateo County high school students appears to be declining, although slight increases have been reported in the use of alcohol and marijuana.

This trend was reported Tuesday by Lilian Blackford, biostatistician with the County Department of Health and Welfare, in the seventh annual survey of drug use among high school pupils.

Alcohol continues to be by far the favorite drug of high schoolers, with 89.5 per cent of senior boys (the index class) reporting some use of alcohol during the year of 1973, a three per cent increase.

Mrs. Blackford said senior class males are used as the index because rates for lower grades and for females tend to follow that of senior boys.

Donald Light, alcoholism program coordinator for the Department of Health and Welfare, said there is a "discernible switch" among high school students from the use of illicit drugs to alcohol.

He attributed this to availability, less cost, and the marketing practices of the liquor industry.

"Alcohol is the national drug," Light said, "the national mind-altering substance."

Marijuana use increased only by nine-tenths of a percent among senior boys, who use that drug more frequently than tobacco. The statistics compiled by Mrs. Blackford show that 61.9 per cent of senior boys used marijuana at some time during the year, while only 56.9 per cent made use of tobacco in any form.

However, among all of the students surveyed in all of the county's school districts except South San Francisco Unified School District and the Jefferson Union High School District, tobacco is used by a higher percentage of students (58.5 per cent) than is marijuana (55.5 per cent).

In her report, Mrs. Blackford notes that, on the basis of the total survey over the past seven years, it is possible to predict that the definite decrease in use of amphetamines and barbiturates will continue.

Usage of LSD and of heroin "appears to be levelling off and possibly decreasing," she said, but the trends "are not clear enough to predict at this point."

Although the use rates for alcohol and marijuana are slightly upward, some of the characteristics which have preceded levelling off and decrease in other drugs seem to be occurring, Mrs. Blackford reported.

She related that in past surveys it has been noted that when use of a specific drug is beginning to level off, a few of the "age-specific" rates go down first.

In the latest survey, eighth grade females showed a lessening of use of alcohol in all levels — any use, use on 10 or more occasions during the year, and use on 50 or more occasions.

Ninth grade boys showed a decrease in use of alcohol in the 10 or more and the 50 or more brackets, and a decrease in all brackets for the use of marijuana, while the use of marijuana showed a decline for eighth grade girls.

Although the rate of use of most drugs is down, the number of non-users, those who have not tried any of the survey substances has declined from 23.2 per cent in the first year of the survey to 11.1 per cent in the latest survey.

Mrs. Blackford noted in her report that the trend for use of drugs by females usually lags six to nine months behind the trend for males, a situation she doesn't attempt to explain, except that girls may be more conservative.

Mrs. Blackford also noted the absence of comments by pupils concerning their reasons for use of drugs.

She surmized that students don't feel they are doing anything unusual, especially in the use of alcohol and tobacco, which is widely accepted as routine.

Quick Arrest

A San Francisco man who allegedly stole a purse from an elderly Daly City woman in front of her South Mayfair Avenue home Sunday was arrested by police minutes later.

Officer Steve Powell spotted a man matching the description of the person who grabbed the purse of Hilda Finkeldey at knifepoint about 2:15 p.m. as she walked in front of her home.

Arrested was Robert E. Ryan, 23, of 882 Grove St., San Francisco.

He was charged with armed robbery, police said.

'Forum' to Open in Daly City

The final week of rehearsal is now in progress for the "Daly City Players" summer musical production of "A Funny Thing Happened On The Way To The Forum."

Sponsored by the Recreation Department, this year's production is again under the direction of Ron Wells, a long-time favorite of the Recreation Department.

A lusty, musical farce, "Forum," takes place in Rome 2000 years ago, a time of slaves and masters, and fierce battles, lovely dancing Courtesans and high-strung Eunuchs.

Starring in the leading roles are: Richard Ryan of San Francisco as Pseudelous, Michael Pulizzano, also of San Francisco as Hysterium, Nanci Bradshaw of Daly City as Domina, and Karl Kostolefsky of Daly City as Lycus.

Choreograph is by Rosalie Bravos and Jeanine Griglou. Sets are designed and are being constructed by Jim Wells, with costumes designed by Dorrie Nelson, and made by Colleen Shannon, Sandra Wells, Leanne Tintori, and Michele Raymond.

Performance dates for "Forum," are July 18, 19, and 20 at Westmoor High School "Little Theatre." Curtain time is at 8 p.m., and tickets may be purchased at the door.

DC Church Schedules 'Tagalog'

Rev. John Mullen, pastor of Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church, Daly City, invites the public to attend a Tagalog Mass on July 27.

The mass will be celebrated by Rev. Fred Bitanga, associate pastor of St. Patrick's Church, San Francisco. This monthly tagalog mass to be celebrated every fourth Saturday of the month is sponsored by the Filipino-American Association of Northern San Mateo County.

An invitation is being extended to anybody interested in joining a tagalog choir, which will be singing the latest religious hymns in the vernacular, as well as to those who can play a musical instrument to accompany the choir.

Those interested may contact the club president, Marcelino Enriquez at 755-8840 or Our Lady of Perpetual Help Parish Rectory, 755-9786.

Enriquez also is extending an invitation to all Filipino Americans to join the association which meets every fourth Friday of the month in the church hall after the weekly devotions to Our Lady of Perpetual Help at 7 p.m.

These weekly devotions, conducted by Rev. Mullen, are patterned after those celebrated at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church in Baclaran, Rizal, Philippines.

CONSTANT surveillance is an important element in the intensive care of heart attack patients and victims of serious accidents at Kaiser's new hospital. The vital signs of every patient in the eight-bed intensive care/coronary care unit are continuously monitored from a central nursing station on the floor.

New Kaiser in Dedication

Dedication ceremonies marking the opening of the new Kaiser Permanente Medical Center, 1200 El Camino Real, South San Francisco were held last week.

Local government officials, labor representatives, leaders of the medical community, and other invited dignitaries attended the 2½-hour preview program.

During the weekend — Saturday, July 13, and Sunday, July 14 — the new hospital was open for public viewing from 1 p.m. until 4 p.m.

Scheduled activities for the open house included continuous tours of the hospital, the viewing of an audiovisual program especially produced to commemorate the hospital's opening, educational displays, and refreshments.

Construction Firm Files Claim Against Pacifica

A claim of $789,653 has been filed against the City of Pacifica by the Healy Tibbitts Construction Co. of San Franciscio, builders of the city's fishing pier.

The claim was rejected by the City Council which referred it to the city's insurance carrier.

The claim consists of five parts.

The firm alleges that the city refused to accept the fishing pier as completed, although it had been in use since November. As a result, the city is holding $223,617 in "retention monies" which the firm claims it is entitled to.

Largest amount, $320,615, is for costs incurred when the firm's huge walking platform and crane (called the "spider") was damaged in a storm, because of delays that Healy-Tibbits blames on the city. Because of the damage, the firm had to dismantle and remove the spider on site, instead of removing it by barge. Then, it had to pay for 2½ months additional rental on the spider.

Other costs the suit cites:

$145,253 progress payment, first requested Dec. 12, which the city has refused to pay.

Input for Devil's Slide Plan Urged

Local residents are encouraged to participate in the Department of Transportation's study to gather information on the various alternatives for improving Devil's Slide, a six-mile stretch of two-lane roadway, winding along the coastal shoreline in San Mateo County.

Local residents are encouraged to participate in the Department of Transportation's study to gather information on the various alternatives for improving Devil's Slide, a six-mile stretch of two-lane roadway, winding along the coastal shoreline in San Mateo County.

The proposed improvement of Devil's Slide would involve a six mile section of Route 1 running from Linda Mar in Pacifica to the Half Moon Bay Airport. Route 1 in this area cuts across the face of a rocky precipice above the ocean. For the foreseeable future Route 1 from Rockaway Beach to Linda Mar would remain a four-lane road and Route 92 and Route 1 south of the Half Moon Bay Airport would remain two-lane roads due to insufficient funding.

To obtain input on possible ways to improve Devil's Slide the department has been meeting with interested local citizen's groups since April, 1973. As a result of these meetings five possible corridors, each with one or more alternatives, ranging from a four-lane freeway proposal to a no-build proposal have been suggested and will be discussed in the draft Environmental Impact Statement.

Presently the Department's interdisciplinary team, which is working on the draft Environmental Impact Statement for the Devil's Slide bypass, is collecting background data from concerned citizen's groups. If any group would like to review or comment upon the interdisciplinary team's findings, they should contact Ralph Thomas, senior highway engineer-project development, State Department of Transportation, Rincon Annex, P.O. Box 3366, San Francisco 94119. The department will hold additional meetings later this year to give civic groups the opportunity to comment upon the research data.

By early 1975 the draft Environmental Impact Statement should be in circulation to local, state and federal agencies, and interested civic groups. After the draft has been in circulation 60 days, a public hearing will be held. Verbal and written comments received at the public hearing will be used to prepare the final Environmental Impact Statement.

When the final draft is completed, it will be sent to the Headquarters Office in Sacramento, the Federal Highway Administration and the Metropolitan Transportation Commission for their approval. If it is approved by late 1976, construction could begin in the late 1970's depending upon the alternative selected and the availability of funding.

THE POST'S S-P-O-R-T-S

Le Pacini

Walter Mails

When Walter Mails died, the first thing we started to do was write a column about him. But it kept coming out maudlin, and nobody should ever be maudlin about Walter Mails, because it doesn't fit, or befit the man. And then we realized that Walter had died almost two years ago and that when he retired from the Giants' speakers bureau, we had written a column about him on that occasion. It seemed more appropriate to write of Walter Mails in life rather than in death, and thus what follows is a reprint, in part, of that column:

Walter Mails, The Great, The Duster, retired . . . last week, and it was not a joyous occasion for kids or newspapermen: for kids because probably no athlete in America ever talked to so many of them so effectively about the value of a good education and the greatness of baseball, or let so many of them into ball parks free; and for newspapermen because Mails never turned one of them away without their staple — a story.

In the 10 years we've been filling this space, for example, we've devoted eight full columns to him and countless short items.

What follows is a sort of compendium of the best . . . of Mails, his quotes and his stories and philosophical musings:

QUOTES:

"Show me one guy in San Francisco education (an administrative person) who's really interested in baseball and I'll eat that damned building on Van Ness without salt and pepper!"

"There are no baseball writers left. All they are are critics."

"(On Horace Stoneham) "He does more for charity and kids silently than a lot of these pop-off owners combined do publicly."

(On Little League) "I started Little League (in San Francisco) . . . and after I resigned as commissioner, it wasn't working out so smoothly, so they asked me to return. I told them . . . only if (they) gave me carte blanche . . . and my first year back . . . I forfeited 35 games because homemakers became troublemakers. . . .

"They're (parents) more valuable shagging foul balls and selling hot dogs and soothing their kids when they lose than they are managing and umpiring from the . . . grandstands. . . .

"Little League is fine if kept in perspective. The main thing is to keep the kids off the streets, not boost their parents' egos. . . .

"We've kept the parents off the field in San Francisco, and made the kids — and parents — realize that Little League is a game and not the most important thing in the world."

(On baseball men who knock the game) "One of baseball's big troubles is that they've got too many guys in the game knocking it. The majority of baseball players, when they're through . . . never come near the park. If it wasn't for baseball, most of them would never have been able to make a living. And most of them make livings after they retire only because of baseball . . . Look at all these guys who think they're entertainers, for instance, and think they can make a bundle outside the game on their other 'talents.' Why, if they weren't baseball players they couldn't make a living playing organs and banjos and singing. . . ."

(On youth programs of other teams) "Some of these clubs wait until the weatherman predicts a miserable night, then advertise for a week before that they're going to let a group of orphans in for nothing.

"When game time comes, if the kids can prove they're orphans by producing their parents' death certificates, they're let in and seated in the farthest corner of the bleachers . . . At the seventh inning stretch, the public address man announces in a trembling voice that 12 orphans have been let in free and would the fans kindly give them a big hand for having the guts to show up on such a lousy night . . . and this club brags all year about letting in 12 orphans . . . I don't believe in exploiting kids for cheap publicity purposes."

STORIES:

Mails loves to tell about when he ws the highest paid player ($20.000) in the Pacific Coast League with Oakland in 1924. He won 24 games and was sold to St. Louis, then managed by Branch Rickey.

Mails told Rickey he wanted a $5,000 raise, and Rickey explained to him that Rogers Hornsby himself was making only $25,000 and that the great first baseman Jimmy Bottomley was making just $5,000. "Can you give me a good reason," said Rickey, "why you're entitled to a $5,000 raise?"

Replied Mails, "First of all I'm not interested in what any other player on your club is getting. I'm looking out for Walter Mails, and that's all I care about. Secondly, if I report to St. Louis, I have to maintain a second home. Thirdly, I won 24 games!"

Rickey calmly replied, "Well, you're right." Mails got the raise.

Post Net Clinic

Commanding a Serve

(This is another article on The Post Beginning Tennis Clinic as taught by San Mateo pro John Reed)

By GARRY NIVER and JOHN REED

Sometimes I awaken in the middle of the night, brow in a cold sweat, listening to Reed bark the command of "Racquet back, bounce, step and hit." It is a command which he issues and reissues until it becomes a part of your subconscious.

"This has to become part of your automatic stroke just as the groove is of the stroke," states Reed. "It is the groove of your correct stroke."

Having made introductions to the forehand and the backhand, Reed now moves into the very valuable area of the serve.

"First of all," states Reed, "if you learn properly at the outset, there is no need to foot-fault. And the serve is unique in that it is the only stroke in which you really let your wrist go with a free snap.

"As in the other strokes, you implement the stance first. In serving the front foot (left foot for right handers and right foot for left handers) should be anywhere from a half inch to three inches behind the baseline and placed at a 45 degree angle to the line. The back foot should be parallel to the baseline.

"And in doubles play, the server always comes out four feet because he has to protect the additional territory of the alleys (the extra four and one-half feet on each side of the court from singles sidelines to doubles sidelines) which you have in doubles play.

"In the serve, there basically are three weight shifts," states Reed. "You start out with the weight on your front foot, rock back on your back foot and come through throwing all of your weight to your front foot again.

"As you come through, you push off your back foot and extend up as high as you can."

As for the grip, Reed explains that it is much like the Continental backhand, only you rotate the hand an eighth of a turn towards your body and move the racquet handle up so the final three fingers are controlling it with the thumb and forefinger acting as an axis.

"This enables you to get the greater wrist snapping motion, which is the key to a good serve."

(Next week: The service toss and hit, plus the four types of serves.)

DC Tennis Winners Named

Maria Brilliant and Gary Rechnitz were the two winners in the Daly City Recreation Department's Tennis Tournament held at Gellert Park, June 29.

Ms. Brilliant defeated Peggy Warren 6-3, 5-7, 6-3 to advance to the finals against Barbara Ryan, a 6-4, 6-2 winner over Mary Thornton. In the championship set, she won 6-1 in an excellently played tennis match.

Rechnize defeated Fred Basconcillo 6-3, 1-6 & 3-1 as Basconcillo had to retire in the third and final set due to leg cramps. Rechnitz had little trouble in his earlier matches of the day as he swept by two opponents to reach the finals of the tourney. Basconcillo had a little more trouble against the three opponents whom he faced as he climbed the ladder to reach the finals.

From the success of the tournament, plans are being made to start a Daly City Tennis Club in the near future.

Ortiz Paces Flying Goose

Larry Ortiz collected three hits and three RBI's Thursday night to pace Flying Goose of Daly City to an 8-5 win over San Carlos Rayberg in a Joe DiMaggio inter-league baseball game.

In another inter-league clash, Harry Therkelsen's three-run homer powered Bel-Mateo past South San Francisco, 7-4.

Savoy Revue Succeeds as Nutty Diversion

"Beach Blanket Babylon" has a kinky name but that's as far underground as it goes. The show is inventively amusing and doesn't fit any prescribed format. What happens at 9:30 and midnight every Friday and Saturday night at the Savoy Tivoli Restaurant's upper back room (an oldtime bocci ball court) at 1438 Grant Ave., San Francisco is something between a revue, a "happening" and a nightclub act. But its none of these in particular.

Producer Steve Silver has gotten his friends together for a fun entertainment. If it sounds camp, it is. If it sounds silly, it is. If it sounds different, that's why you should be intrigued. The madcap event is a bright, screwy, silly summer diversion.

The long room is covered with sand. Wooden back chairs face a stage festooned with beach umbrellas, half buried beer bottles and a white capped ocean wave that parts in the middle for the performers to enter through. The lighting man sits at the back of the room on a life guard platform dressed in swimming trunks. There are discarded sun tan lotion bottles on the ticket taker's table and all the cocktail waitresses wear bikinis and are shapely and well-tanned.

So much for the decor.

None of the setting is connected with what transpires over the hour-long show which is loose enough to resemble an amateur talent contest and slick enough to showcase some degree of talent. It's more like a displaced summer camp revue or a quasi junior league conceived resort hotel program. Don't expect much and you'll get more than you bargained for.

The four musicians pad out in poodle costumes complete with show cut patterns on their white woolly head-to- toe disguises. And naturally they strike up a medley of "A Summer Place," "Love Letters In The Sand" and "Surfer Girl."

What follows are two people inside a brown plastic M and M candy shapes who introduce a bright new talent (I'm told she works in a bank during the day) in Nancy Bleiweiss. She is equally adept at singing opera in a coloratura voice sharply reminiscent of Kathryn Grayson as she is at fracturing Spanish in an hilarious takeoff of Carmen Miranda.

Her two costume changes are spectacular concoctions, monumental architectural designs that overwhelm the stage and stun one with their grandiose and tinselled vulgarity. The first is a pink satin and billowing tulle fairy gown with a high plastic and rhinestone crown and the other is a sequin sarong embellished with 12 large paper pineapples and little plastic hula girls tucked into her crown.

While she's warbling "Tico Tico," doing a Tina Turner rendition of "Rolling Down The River" (which she pronounces Riber) and such campy revivals as a screaming teenage rock and roll imitation of "Stay By Your Man" and "Sweet Leilani," the audience has become unstrung, unglued and is falling on the floor.

Mary-Cleere Haran is an attractive redhead who slinks out in a black satin, side slit, tight clinging gown to a sensuous vocalization of Rita Hayworth's classic account of "Put The Blame On Mame."

As if this wasn't zany enough to appeal to a late night crowd, there were two unidentified sidekicks (the M and M duo) now garbed head to toe as a green Christmas tree with tinsel decorations (and little Santa Clauses bouncing from the toes of his shoes) and a red-flannel suited Santa I Claus with a white beard that trails to the toes.

The caper is the finale when four middle-aged matronly ladies dressed in T-shirts and crepe paper hula skirts come out to add to the mayhem while Ms. Bleiweiss breaks your eardrums with a snappy tribute to "There's No Pipple Like Show Pipple."

With sparklers waiving and the American flag unfurled, the entire troupe closes with a red-white-and-blue costumed parade down the aisles to a rousing chorus of "God Bless America."

You'd have to be made of stone to resist that. Put a little fun in your nightlife and check out this kooky pastiche.

$5,000 Offered For Car

A San Bruno man has offered to pay $5,000 for information leading to the recovery of his 1966 Jaguar XKE — a car that the official buyer's guide says is worth about $2,500.

Jim Martin, an architect working in San Francisco, parked his sporty red sportscar on Fairway Drive in Daly City early on the morning of June 11 and walked the three blocks to the Bay Area Rapid Transit station.

Upon his return, about 5:45 p.m., the car was missing.

At first he thought perhaps it had been towed away for some traffic violation.

A check of towing services, however, in the city failed to verify the car had been trucked off. A stolen car report was taken and the police search begun.

During the past month the only information obtained by Martin in his search for his car has been the story of a neighborhood resident who said she thought she saw "some young people" hanging around the car about noontime on June 11.

Asked why he would pay more than twice the going rate for the "Jag," Martin replied, "It has sentimental value."

Martin's car is also "one of a kind."

"They just don't make them anymore and actually it's becoming a collectors' item," he said.

The car is in mint condition, "and there is nothing 'stashed" in the car as one caller intimated," Martin said.

Anyone with information regarding the red, two-door hardtop Jaguar, (License XAT 058), can call Martin and be the first in the community to get in on one of the largest rewards ever paid in the North County for recovery of a stolen car.

Or, information can be relayed in confidence through the police switchboard.

Four Shots Fired at SSF Police

South San Francisco police are continuing their search today for a mysterious sniper who shot at two officers early Sunday morning.

Officer Thomas McLaughlin was patroling the industrial section of the city east of Bayshore Freeway when he heard a shot ring out police reported. As McLaughlin got out of his car, he heard a second shot, and a bullet struck his car.

Officer Donald Culbertson responded to aid McLaughlin. While checking the area three more rounds narrowly missed Culbertson's car.

South San Francisco police made a thorough search of the area, assisted by officers from the California Highway Patrol, Brisbane and Foster City police, and the San Mateo County Sheriff's Office, but could find no suspects.

Arrested

Brisbane police arrested a San Francisco man on an assault with a deadly weapon warrant issued by another city after he allegedly was involved in a minor traffic accident Sunday.

James Walter Watts, 45, of 354 Nevada St., San Francisco was held in the County Jail at Redwood City on an Oakland charge following the accident at Visitacion and Old Country Road, shortly before 11 a.m.

City Ponders Who Should Pay for Impact Report

Must a small neighborhood association pay as much as $40,000 to have its views on how a neighborhood should be zoned considered?

This is one question that the Pacifica City Council and the Planning Commission will be facing within the next month or two. Councilmen debated the problem at last week's meeting but were unable to reach a conclusion.

Even if the association — the Sharp Park Improvement Council — escapes paying an estimated $40,000 for an Environmental Impact Report, the problem would not be solved. The city also would be hard put to find the money, after adopting an austerity city budget.

The problem arose at last week's meeting of the City Council when it considered a proposal by SPIC to rezone most of west Sharp Park's residential areas to duplex. West Sharp Park now is zoned for apartments, but is mostly occupied by small, older, single family homes.

The planning staff had recommended a "negative environmental impact" declaration — asking the planners to certify that no EIR was necessary. However, the planning commission overruled its staff and insisted on an EIR.

Councilmen wondered if a Planning Commission hearing could be held, and an EIR made later. Les Clark, director of Community Development, insisted that state law requires an EIR whenever a major rezoning is undertaken.

Ken Grobman, representing the Planning Commission, declared that "the purpose of the EIR is to help us reach a decision. We must have it first."

Council member Janice Fulford pointed out that SPIC's proposal was only one of many being considered by the planners; eight others were proposed by staff.

Councilman Sid Lorvan suggested setting up an ad hoc committee so that somebody could talk about the rezoning.

Angie Soladino of Santa Maria Avenue, in Sharp Park, pointed out that "even if we did not have the Sharp Park Improvement Council's plan, we would still have to resolve the General Plan and the zoning, which are presently in conflict. Since you represent the people of Pacifica, if an EIR is required, then you should pay for it."

Sewage Not Going Into Sea: Goble

No evidence has been found of contamination on Pacifica's beaches despite some complaints.

Allegations have been made by fishermen and other beach-goers that "green, slimy stuff" has been floating off shore, and that untreated sewage has been turning up.

Charlie Goble, acting treatment plant superintendent, flatly denied that there has been any untreated sewage emptying into the ocean, even though a digester is clogged and disagreeable odors have been reported in west Sharp Park.

One digester still is working, he said, and all sewage is being treated.

Bids on cleaning the digester are being received.

Rex Goff, county sanitation engineer, reported that his men have been taking samples along the beaches from Half Moon Bay to Daly City.

So far, he said, no evidence of contamination has been found on any beach. The algea found seems to be seaweed from the ocean, rather than from the sewer plant.

Warning signs were placed on Thornton Beach in Daly City, over the weekend, because of debris in the water, after the storm.

SF Woman Dies on Devil's Slide

A young San Francisco woman plunged 300 feet to her death over Devil's Slide south of Pacifica Sunday, and her husband was injured as he slid 100 feet down the coastside bluff in a futile effort to save his wife.

Mrs. Candia (Candy) Dawn Galvin, 24, was pronounced dead at 7:55 p.m. at Peninsula Hospital, where her body was airlifted by a Coast Guard helicopter which had lifted her from the ocean at the base of Devil's Slide below Saddle Rock.

Her husband, Gary N. Galvin, 34, a construction coordinator, was treated at the hospital for multiple cuts, abrasions, bruises and a possible concussion.

Galvin told Sheriff's Deputy Ross Hite that he and his wife were sitting on boulders about 15 feet apart at the top of the bluff about 6:30 p.m. and he was trying to show her a Yoga stance he had taken for a photographer a day or so earlier.

His back was to his wife momentarily, Galvin said, when he heard her scream, "Gary." He turned around just in time to see his wife disappearing over the edge of the steep, rock-strewn bank.

Galvin told the deputy that he dove for his wife, touching some of her clothing as she slid past him. He slid about 100 feet down the bluff, coming to a stop when he crashed into a boulder and was momentarily stunned.

Galvin related that he climbed back up the embankment and descended about three-fourths of the way back to the water when he saw his wife's body floating in the surf. He climbed back up and drove about one-fourth of a mile to Edan Cove where he called the Coast Guard.

Inventions

What's new? Well, there's a clock that is fixed to the door of a public lavatory to tell the impatient person how long it has been in use. Then there is a bucket that scrubs the bath. You plate it in the tub and push a button then sit back and relax while the bucket moves up and down in the tub with water and detergent shooting out of holes in the bucket and scrubbing the tub.

Then there is an instrument that looks like a brace and bit and is used to rub dimples into feminine cheecks. For the follow-cheeked person there are cheek pads. Since they are made of Indian rubber they can be blown up to give cheeks the fullness desired.

The descriptions of such devices may be found in "Inventions Necessity Is Not The Mother Of." Here are 12 chapters of fun. Each page is loaded with descriptions of strange inventions. So how about an automatic baby-burper, or a diaper for your parakeet or a golf ball that sends out a smoke signal when it lands to help its owner locate it.

In 1908 one Gerge H. Williams patented a tube that fits into a casket and extends above the level of the grave into the air. This gives the living a view of the body in the grave. If it should be discovered that the occupant has resurrected or was buried while he was still alive, Mr. Williams' tube can be used to provide him with air until he can be dug up.

The author of "Inventions Necessity Is Not the Mother Of," Stacy V. Jones of the New York Times, writes the purpose of his book is to provide entertainment rather than to advance science. He writes that we are lucky that the inventive spirit exists in our country to advance our civilization and now and then give us a chuckle.

His words about the inventive spirit lead us to another book. "A Museum of Early American Tools" by Eric Sloane.

Here, page after page, the reader finds pictures and descriptions of tools that were invented by necessity. He finds that tools are "so much an extension of a man's hand or an added appendage to his arm, that the resulting workmanship seems to flow directly from the body of the maker and to carry something of himself into the work.

Sloane believes that today's mass produced tools differ greatly from the tools of old. "The Early implement," he says, "was also a piece of art, as much as the work it fashioned, for the worker designed his tooks too."

"A Museum of Early American Tools," contains pen-and-ink sketches of old tools by the dozens. Each sketch is accompanied by well written descriptions, thus making the book a delight to read.

Such books illustrate that "the book" yet remains a primary source of communication.

Winner of Coast Race Announced

The foot race was held on the Fourth of July to open the dedication celebration of Frontierland Park.

Sershen, who ran in the 21 to 30-year division, completed the five-mile run up steep hills — in 27 minutes and 42 seconds.

Dennis Martinez was named winner in the 16-20 year old division, while Pat Cunneen won in the senior division for "over-40s." Pat's son, Garrett Cunneen, 7, won the trophy for the youngest runner.

Several runners in the senior division were over 60, according to Recreation Supervisor David Barry.

Other winners were David Marsh, 31-39 year division, and Gus Torres, 10-15 years of age.

Last runner, an older man, straggled in at 46 minutes — still considered a good time for five miles. A total of 32 persons competed, including a number of women.

Trophies were awarded by Mayor Aubrey Lumley.

'Ballet Nite' Is Hosted at Shakey's Pizza

The Daly City Civic Ballet, sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department, hosted a "Ballet Nite" at Shakey's Pizza Parlour.

Patrons at Shakey's were delightfully surprised by two ballet performances under the direction of Diane Roberts. Girls performing were: Kathy DeBarros, Gayle Rigoni, Michelle Frenkel, Kathy Torres, Marie Abruzzo, Pam Ruggiero, Angela Brizuela, Francine Torres, Teresa Baumann, Nancy Brown, Mary DeBarros, Cynthia and Rene Abruzzo, Melissa Candau, Vicki Tachirgi, Eileen Kireopoulos and Diane Kounalakis.

Hostesses greeting guests at the door during the evening were Diane Roberts, Mrs. Robert Brown, Mrs. Robert Brizuela and Mrs. George Frenkel.

The Junior and Senior Civic Ballet will be featured in the Summer Dance Production scheduled for Wednesday, Aug. 21.

Sugarloaf Tour Set

A walking tour of Sugarloaf Mountain has been set for 10 a.m. Saturday, July 20, by Belmont city officials, with the public invited to go along.

The city council decided on the trip Monday after hearing City Manager James P. DeChaine say the city should be ready to react to development proposals on the mountain.

San Mateo County is preparing an environmental impact report on the controversial mountain, just west of Belmont's western hills subdivisions, and both the county planning office and potential developers will want to know what Belmont thinks of their ideas, DeChaine said.

The Belmont group will meet at the foot of De Anza Boulevard, almost under the Nineteenth Avenue Freeway in San Mateo to begin the tour.

Belmonters joined San Mateo environmentalists three years ago in opposing a large housing and commercial development on Sugarloaf. The threat of noise and dust problems in nearby Belmont homes brought on a full-scale civic effort to top the project and the empty but promising open space has been watched from the Belmont side very closely since.

High School Basketball Signups Set

The deadline for team entries for the Daly City High School Recreation Mid-Summer Basketball League is July 19 at 5 p.m.

The team entry fee of $12.50 and roster must be turned in or mailed to the Recreation Department, 134 Hillside Blvd.

The league is open to boys who live in or go to high school in Daly City. Those entering ninth grade or leaving twelfth are eligible to play.

DISPLAY CLASSIFIED 721—MILLBRAE HEIGHTS

The best view in this $80,000 neighborhood costs $57,500.

And you can purchase it at 8-3/4%.* Impossible? Not now, but it soon will be as these three bedroom view condominiums atop the Mills Estate property will probably be sold out within a month. The reason—everything is here except the high price tag.

The view is the best on the North Peninsula. Your private balcony gives you a panoramic view of the Peninsula and San Francisco Bay. Above it all, and close to everything. Easy access to Highways 101, 280, and the train station make commuting a snap.

The space inside is as beautiful as the space outside. Plush carpeting, draperies, oven, range, refrigerator, washer/dryer, dishwasher, and fireplace are all included. The recreation center, swimming pool, and saunas are ready for summer.

The time to move up to Millbrae Heights is now. When these are sold, that's it. Three bedrooms, two baths, from $57,500. Ready for immediate occupancy.
